Privacy & Data Security

Your data is safe — and it is yours.

Anveshan is used by students, many of whom are under 18. We take that seriously. We collect only what we need to give a student their career report and guidance, and we protect it with care. Here is our plain-language promise to every student and parent.

Our promises to you

We collect only what we need. Your name, a parent or guardian's name and mobile number, email, school, city, grade, and your assessment answers — nothing more than is needed to give you your report and guidance.

We never sell your data. Your information is never sold, and never shared with any third party for their own purposes.

We never advertise to children. We do not track or profile children for advertising, and never use a student's data for anything other than their own guidance.

Parental consent for minors. Data from students under 18 is collected only with the agreement of a parent or guardian, given at registration.

Your conversations with Disha stay private. Chats with our AI counsellor are kept private, used to help you in the moment, and reviewed only in a de-identified way to improve the service.

You are in control. You, or a parent on your behalf, can ask to see, correct, or delete your data, or withdraw consent, at any time.

How we keep your data secure

- Stored securely, with access limited to those who need it.
- Protected in transit and at rest on trusted systems.
- Governed by India's data-protection framework (the DPDP framework), including its rules for children's data.

Your rights

You, or a parent or guardian on a student's behalf, may at any time ask us to show you the data we hold, correct it, or delete it, and may withdraw consent. Simply write to direction@goanveshan.in and we will act on your request.

We collect little, protect it well, and it always remains yours.

This is a plain-language summary. The full Privacy Policy governs how your data is handled, and is available on our website and on request at direction@goanveshan.in.
